Product description

This bonnet for the Porsche 911 model 997.2 GT3 RS, specifically designed for the 2010 facelift version, is an essential spare part for anyone who values originality and performance. The part has the OEM number 997512227A1 and comes directly from Porsche, ensuring a perfect fit and functionality that is often not achievable with aftermarket products.

The special feature of this bonnet is its design, which does without the usual rear wing. This design choice emphasises the sleek, streamlined shape of the GT3 RS and is aimed at vehicle owners who prefer a more understated look without compromising on the high performance that Porsche offers.

The condition of the part is described as used, but very good and undamaged. This quality underlines the durability and high standards that Porsche sets for its components. It is therefore an excellent option for replacing or upgrading your vehicle to maintain its value and functionality.

This bonnet is specifically designed for the Porsche 911 model 997 and meets the exact technical and aesthetic requirements of this vehicle model. Whether you are restoring a classic or simply want to ensure that your GT3 RS remains in the best possible condition, this bonnet is an essential component that combines aesthetic elegance with functional excellence.
