Product description

The engine cover for the Porsche 911 model 997 Turbo COUPE is an essential spare part for the maintenance or repair of your vehicle. This used original part from Porsche, with the OEM number 99751292100COU, not only includes the engine cover itself, but also comes complete with a rear spoiler and its drive mechanism.

The engine cover is specially designed for the Turbo version of the Porsche 911 997 COUPE and fits perfectly with the specific requirements of this model. The integration of the rear spoiler improves the aerodynamics and overall performance of the vehicle by providing additional downforce at higher speeds. The included spoiler drive ensures smooth functionality of the spoiler, which is particularly advantageous in variable driving conditions. Although the part is in very good condition and shows only minor signs of use or storage, it should be noted that the colour differs from the image and that the part may need to be repainted to match the colour of your vehicle. This may be necessary, for example, to cover scratches on the paintwork. This engine cover is an excellent choice if you are looking for a high-quality, functional and visually appealing replacement part for your Porsche that optimises the performance and appearance of your vehicle.
